Hotels Pivot to Accommodate Guests Working Remotely

As many U.S. companies continue to extend remote work, hotels pivot to meet a new demand: people working remotely who need a change of scenery.

In Breckenridge and Vail, Gravity Haus encourages guests to "Work from Haus" at the properties' StarterHaus, a tech-forward and functional co-working space. StarterHaus features fiber-fueled internet, a 10-person conference room, a phone booth, a kitchenette, a printer, open-air seating along the Blue River and insider access to special programming.

At Mountain Shadows Resort Scottsdale and Hotel Valley Ho, both in Scottsdale, the Come & Play All Day offer includes a day of perks at either property including guestroom access 9 a.m.–5 p.m., access to property pools, a $40 dining credit, an in-room movie, a waived resort fee at Mountain Shadows, complimentary parking and unlimited WiFi. The offer is available Mondays through Wednesdays until Sept. 30.

Washington School House in Park City, Utah, will create in-room workstations in its 12 rooms and suites. The workstation will include a printer, office supplies, branded notepads and more. Complimentary Milk Breaks can be ordered, including anything from cookies and milk to crunchy, savory snacks and sparkling water or coffee.

The day-use rate at InterContinental Washington, D.C.—The Wharf begins at $239. The guestrooms offer natural lighting, large desks, complimentary high-speed internet access and flexible check-in.

Across the pond, The Stafford London's Mews Suite—Day Hire offer includes a guestroom for remote working and a two-course lunch from the hotel's The Game Bird restaurant.

The Westin Nashville offers a day-use room 10 a.m.–6 p.m. for $199. The offer also includes complimentary high-speed WiFi, a special valet rate of $15 per car, the on-site WestinWORKOUT fitness center, 10 percent off spa services, L27 rooftop pool use and a free appetizer.

TAP Air Portugal's New Route to the United States

TAP Air Portugal added a new route from Boston (BOS) to Ponta Delgada (PDL), marking the airline's only non-stop route to the Azores from the United States.

The route operates three times weekly on brand-new Airbus A321LR aircraft configured with three cabins: business, EconomyXtra and economy. The inaugural flight departed the Azores July 20 and arrived in Boston early before returning to Ponta Delgada on July 21.

"It's a rare privilege to be able to introduce a new route during such a hard time for the airline industry and global travel in general," said Carlos Paneiro, vice president, sales, the Americas, TAP Air Portugal. "The Azores has always been incredibly popular with Portuguese Americans, especially in the summer, so we're thrilled to be able to offer a non-stop flight as well as our Lisbon stopover option."
